CAA DRONE RESTRICTIONS

New requirements have been introduced this year by the CAA which require the operators of pilotless aircraft to register and to pass a competency test. Please read and tick the appropriate box below:

- I have taken and passed the CAA theory test or I am exempt from it.
Test is at <https://register-drones.caa.co.uk/individual/register-and-take-test-to-fly>
Non-UK pilots are required to 'take the theory test to get a flyer ID' (easy and free). They are NOT required to 'register for an operator ID' (would cost £9). Anyone holding an A-Certificate or a Registration Competency Certificate from the BMFA is exempt.
- I am prepared to carry the CD's operator number if required.
(UK pilots will have and display their own Operator ID number. Non-UK pilots who do not have a valid equivalent from their home country will be required to carry on the aircraft the CD's Operator ID. This will be supplied by the organisers on a small slip of paper which can be taped inside a hatch or may be written temporarily outside the plane.)'

FREQUENCIES: Frequencies allowed in the UK are 35Mhz and 2.4Ghz.
